

Swallow migration story

We like it here because it is pretty, sunny, and a bit windy.

My friend Georgia and Hannah already flown to France. When the winter comes I go to South Africa for the winter. Before we go we have to pack up. When the rain came to the English Channel we hurried under a tree. When we travelled we saw dolphins jumping and doing fantastic tricks. When we are hungry we swoop down and swirl. Then when I get to France I see the Eiffel Tower however it is so tall that I can't see the top. People are so excited because they walk to the top. When we got to France if we were lucky we were aloud to go up the Eiffel Tower and though it. There are lots of houses so it is a big town. There are farms and farm animals. Next we go to Pyrenees Mountains. When we land we see cold white, freezing mountains however we are sensible if the sun comes out. After we get to Spain I go into the water so we can have a drink and we can wash. We fly down to see planes, animals and lots more!. It is so boiling that lots of people swim in sea.
